ARIC

Need access to the ARIC website?

If you are a researcher or staff member on the ARIC project, we are happy to help!

Please note, individuals wishing to access research proposals for writing manuscripts must have an active ARIC affiliation.

Go to https://aric.cscc.unc.edu/aric9/user/register/ and submit our online form to create a new account.

Please fill it out completely. Your email must be tied to your institution and not a personal email (no gmail, yahoo mail, etc.).

Your institution and the name of your ARIC principal investigator/point of contact are required. We will be reaching out to this individual to verify your need for and type of access.

We will be automatically notified of your request and you should expect to receive follow-up within one business day.

Accounts will remain active for one year following last login date, provided the user is still a member of ARIC.

We offer the following kinds of access:

ARIC Study Member   Gives access to the majority of our secure site. This includes manuals, trainings, presentations, and manuscript proposals.

Within the ARIC Study Member role, additional access can be granted:

ACHIEVE   Adds access to a set of pages for research staff on that study.

Datasets   This adds the capability to download data files. This access is restricted to participating site principal investigators and their designees, per sIRB requirements.

OSMB   This adds access to pages for individuals using and preparing materials for our Observational Study Monitoring Board.
